

IMPRESSED WITH WESTERN CANADA.

Says Our Prairie Will Be Filled Up in Ten Years.

La. A. Stockwell, of Indianapolis, a United States land man who made an extensive tour of inspection in the west, wrote the following article, under date of Jan. 8, for an Indiana publication:

"States." In this letter I propose to show by extracts from my note book that thousands who have come up here from the "States" have succeeded far beyond their most sanguine expectations.

Mr. N. E. Beaumont, of Brazil, Indiana, was earning $100.00 per month with a coal company. At about the age of 40 he had saved about $3,000. Four years ago he landed near Hanley, Sask. He now owns 450 acres of land. Last fall (1905) he threshed 4,700 bushels of wheat and 3,100 bushels of oats. His wheat alone brought him over $4,000, which would have paid for the acres that it grew on. He is to-day worth $15,000.

This Is Making Money Fast.

In Feb., 1902, J. G. Smith & Bro. were warring in a big cotton mill in Lancashire, England. Coming here, they arrived in Wapella, Sask., with only $75.00 between them. They were so "green" and inexperienced that all they could earn the first summer was $6.00 per month, and the first winter they had to work for their board. The next year, 1903, they took homesteads, and by working for neighbors they got a few acres broken out, upon which the next year they raised a few hundred bushels of wheat and oats. They also bought a team and broke out about sixty acres more. In 1905, they threshed 17,000 bushels of wheat from it, and 13,000 bushels of oats. Their success being thus assured, they borrowed some money, built a good house, barn and implement shed, and bought a cream separator, etc. They now have a dozen cows, some full blooded pigs and chickens, good teams and implements to match, and are on the high road to prosperity. Here are three cases selected from my note book from among a score of others. One, a mine boss, one a farmer, and one a factory operator. With each of them I took tea and listened to their story. I hoped to better my condition, I said one. "I thought in time I might make a home," said another. "I had high expectations," said the other, and all said that "I never dreamed it possible to succeed as I have."

Like Arabian Nights.

Everywhere, on the trains, at the hotels and in family I have been told successes that reminded me more of the stories in the Arabian Nights than of this matter-of-fact world. Yields of wheat from 35 to 55 bushels per acre, and of oats from 50 to 100 bushels, are numerous in every locality and well authenticated. At Moose Jaw, Lethbridge, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Brandon, Hanley and many intermediate places I saw cattle and young horses fat as our grain-fed animals of the "States" that had never tasted grain, and whose cost to their owners was almost nothing. At Moose Jaw I saw a trailhead of 1,400 steers en route to England, that were shaky fat, raised as above stated. If the older generation of farmers in Indiana, who have spent their lives in a contest with logs and stumps as did their fathers before them, could see these broad prairies dotted with comfortable homes, large red barns, and straw piles innumerable, and the thriving towns with their towering elevator jammed to the roof with "No. 1 hard," and then remember that four or five years ago these plains were tenantless but for the hodge and coyote, they would marvel at the transformation. Then if they followed the crowds as they emerged from the trains and hurried to the land offices, standing in line until their respective turns to be waited on came, and saw with what rapidity these lands are being taken, they would certainly catch the "disease" and want some of it, too. If these lands are beautiful in midwinter, with their long stretches of yellow stubble standing high above the snow, what must they be in summer time, when covered with growing or ripening grains? Speaking of winter, reminds me that our Hoosier friends shrug their shoulders when they read in the Chicago and Minneapolis dailies of the temperature up here. For that very reason I am here this winter. The Canadian literature with its pictures, half-tones and statistics, gives a good idea of her resources, but thirty or forty degrees below zero sounds dangerous to a Hoosier, who nearly freezes in a temperature of five above, especially when accompanied by a wind, as it often is, but the fact is, when it is very cold here it is still and the air being dry, the cold is not felt as it is in our lower latitudes, where there is more humidity in the atmosphere. I am 56, and I never saw a finer winter than the one I am spending up here. I arrived in Winnipeg Nov. 9, and have not had the bottoms of my overcoats wet since I entered Canada. Under a cloudless sky I have ridden in sleighs nearly a thousand miles, averaging a drive every other day. Stone masons have not lost a week's time so far this winter. Building of all kinds goes right ahead in every city and hamlet, as though winter were never heard of.

Information concerning homestead lands in Western Canada can be had from any authorized Canadian Government Agent, whose advertisement appears elsewhere in this paper.

Fears Father; Kills Him.

Bevier, Mo.—To escape punishment about to be administered to him, Albert Kelly, 11 years old, shot and killed his father with a shotgun. The father had knocked the boy's mother down with a chair and brutally beaten the other children, when Albert seized a shotgun and ran from the house. The father followed the boy, intending to punish him, and the boy killed him.

True.

"It takes a wife to help a man rise in the world."

"And in the morning," assented the other, with a shiver.—Houston Post.

CHURCH AND SCHOOL.

Maine pays her elementary teachers an average of $1.20 a day for 313 days in the year.

The number of students at the twenty-two universities of Germany this winter is 42,360. Berlin has nearly a fifth of them—8,081.

A marine school has recently been opened at Kingston, Canada. The first session was attended by 100 candidates for masters' and mates' degrees.

Cardinal Gibbons, since his arrival in Baltimore, has conferred the benediction on Cardinal Satolli and Cardinal Martini.

Rev. Charles M. Poole, a Methodist preacher and mission worker in Auckland, N. Z., was recently elected a member of parliament on the prohibition issue.

Rev. Joseph A. Elliott, "Elliot of Fyzabad," the well-known Wesleyan missionary, is dead. "An Irishman born in India" was Mr. Elliott's description of himself.

The British Wesleyan Methodists have already sold more than a million and a half copies of the "word edition" of their new hymn book, and more than 250,000 of the "tune-book."

Dr. Joseph Wright, professor of comparative philology at Oxford, was a mill-hand at the age of 18 and unable to read. To-day he is one of the most learned men in England.

The Hon. William Moore, chief secretary of Tasmania, who recently received congratulations on his eighty-eighth birthday, is doubtless the oldest working minister of the English crown.

In 1891, 80.54 per cent. of German students were at the universities, and only 12.57 at the technological schools. In 1902 the universities had 68.26, the technological schools 25.63 per cent. of the students.

SCIENTIFIC ITEMS.

Prof. Koch is said to have decided to apply the Nobel prize recently awarded to him to the publication of a complete edition of his scientific writings.

Sir David Gill, who has been astronomer royal at the Cape since 1873, is resigning his post and returning to England for the New Year. Many notable astronomical problems have been solved at the Cape observatory under Sir David Gill's direction, including the determination of the minor planet Victoria, Sappho and Iris.

The problem of the ascent of air in trees, an English botanist points out, is yet unsolved. It appears that in the highest trees the total pressure would be nearly 100 atmospheres, and as we cannot suppose that leaves can exert so intense osmotic suction, the only theory at all probable is that the living cells exert some sort of pumping action in the wood.

M. Martel, a French explorer who has devoted much time to the subject of caves, is confident that the surface of the earth is fast wearing away by erosion and corrosion. In such a manner that the level at which water is found in the earth's crust is being lowered. He thinks that there will be a disastrous scarcity of water available for drinking a few centuries hence.

Gold has been easily distilled by Henri Molesan in the electric furnace, its boiling point being higher than that of copper, but lower than that of lime. In a cold tube, the vapor condensed partly in the form of moss gold, partly as microscopic crystals. The general properties being those of finely divided gold. In alloys with copper and tin, the gold distills over last. On distilling an alloy of tin and gold, a purple of Cassius is obtained in the dry way.

Contempt of Court in a Look.

The public executioner of the grand duchy of Hesse has been fined $20 for "casting a disdainful glance" at the judge of the supreme court of Darmstadt.

A PERFECT HAND.

How its Appearance Became Familiar to the Public.

The story of how probably the most perfect feminine hand in America became known to the people is rather interesting.

As the story goes the possessor of the hand was with some friends in a photographer's office and while talking, held up a piece of candy. The pose of the hand with its perfect contour and faultless shape attracted the attention of the artist, who proposed to photograph it. The result was a beautiful picture kept in the family until one day, after reading a letter from someone inquiring as to who wrote the Postum and Grape-Nuts advertisements, Mr. Post said to his wife: "We receive so many inquiries of this kind, that it is evident some people are curious to know, suppose we let the advertising department have that picture of your hand to print and name it 'A Helping Hand.'" (Mrs. Post has assisted him in preparation of some of the most famous advertisements.)

There was a natural shrinking from the publicity, but with an agreement that no name would accompany the picture, its use was granted.

The case was presented in the light of extending a welcoming hand to the friends of Postum and Grape-Nuts, so the picture appeared on the back covers of many of the January and February magazines and became known to millions of people.

Many artists have commented upon it as probably the most perfect hand in the world.

The advertising dept. of the Postum Co. did not seem at all to resist the temptation to enlist the curiosity of the public, by refraining from giving the name of the owner when the picture appeared, but stated that the name would be given later in one of the newspaper announcements, thus seeking to induce the readers to look for and read the forthcoming advertisements to learn the name of the owner.

This combination of art and commerce and the multitude of inquiries furnished an excellent illustration of the interest the public takes in the personal and family life of large manufacturers whose names become household words through extensive and continuous announcements in newspapers and periodicals.

THE COST OF REVOLUTION

Loss Involved in the Russian Proletariat Strike Was Five Hundred Million Dollars.

Aside from the moral and political questions involved, a matter of much interest connected with the recent proletarian strike in Russia has been the problem of the cost of the resultant disturbances in terms of money, and upon this matter most interesting light has been thrown by the publication in The London Statist of the careful estimate made by Professor Migoulin, one of the foremost economists of Russia, who places the direct loss from mob disorder at $175,000,000. Professor Migoulin attributes to the disorders at Baku, the great oil producing district of the empire, which was devastated by fire, an actual loss of $20,000,000; estates, here and there through the ravaged country, destroyed by the peasantry represented $25,000,000; factories, sugar mills, and other manufacturing plants in provincial districts burned by mobs made up a loss of $20,000,000; the incendiary burning of the port of Odessa involved a loss of $25,000,000; wholesale pillaging of 60 towns and villages in the month of October amounted to the destruction of $30,000,000 of property, while warships, government stores and property, and houses destroyed by cannonade involved another $25,000,000, bringing the total from these items alone to $175,000,000.

But it should be noted, these are the direct losses, the first-hand destruction brought about by the revolutionary forces. In the wake of this destruction and the unsettled following it there were collateral losses which far overtopped this total. Thus, the loss to the railway administration is put at $20,000,000 during the first strike in October; the loss of wages to workmen and the shutting off of productive capacity in many directions amount to at least $100,000,000 more, while beyond these matters, but still arising from the great strike disturbances, are to be set down some $100,000,000 withdrawn from the country by Russians fleeing from their unhappy land, the enormous bankruptcies, involving some $50,000,000, and withdrawals of as much more by foreign bankers with Russian branches or Russian correspondents. The grand total from all these sources, including the direct losses hitherto enumerated, run well above $500,000,000.

Quaker Spot in Ireland.

Among the many odd nooks and corners and crannies of the old emerald isle is Carrick-a-rede, on the Great Northern railroad of Ireland. It is an isolated rock, separated from the mainland by a chasm 90 feet wide and more than 80 feet deep, and it is at this place that the salmon are lacerated in their retreat to the rivers.

A rude bridge of ropes is thrown across which remains during the fishing season, and this bridge, which is protected by a single rope rail, swings about in the most uncomfortable manner, often rendering it a dangerous feat in stormy weather, save to the natives, who cross it with the utmost indifference. The name is derived from "Carrick-a-rumadh" (the rock in the road) on account of the intercepting of the salmon. Near by, on the west side of the island, is a cavern in which have been found the bones of horse, ox, deer, sheep, goat, badger, water rat and of several kinds of birds.

Stray Stories.

Royal Lifeboats.

It is a singular coincidence that between January 1 and December 31 the royal national lifeboats were 365 times on service, five hundred and thirty lives and 27 vessels were saved.

Two Thoughts.

"You know Bragg, of course. I think he belongs to your church."

"Well, Bragg doesn't think that."

"No? How do you mean?"

"He thinks the church belongs to him."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ancient Art.

Although the name of the first rope maker and that of the land in which he practiced his art have both been lost to history, Egyptian sculptures prove that the art was practiced at least 2,000 years before the time of Christ.

HOSPITALS CROWDED

MAJORITY OF PATIENTS WOMEN

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Saves Many From This Sad and Costly Experience.

It is a sad but certain fact that every year brings an increase in the number of operations performed upon women in our hospitals. More than three-fourths of the patients lying on those galleys are women and girls who are awaiting or recovering from operations made necessary by neglect.

Every one of these patients had plenty of warning in that bearing down feeling, pain at the left or right of the abdomen, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, pelvic catarrh, discharge, flatulency, displacement or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the female organs, and if not heeded the trouble may make headway until the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation, and a lifetime of impaired usefulness at best, while in many cases the results are fatal.

Miss Luella Adams, of Seattle, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—About two years ago I was a great sufferer from a severe female trouble, pain and headache. The doctor prescribed for me and finally told me that I had a tumor and must have an operation. I was so weak that I felt that this was my death warrant. I spent hundreds of dollars for medical help, but the tumor kept growing. Fortunately I read of your medicine in the New England States, and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it was said to cure tumors. I did so and immediately began to improve in health, and I was entirely cured, the tumor disappearing entirely, without an operation. I would not wonder if a woman would try this great preparation."

Just as surely as Miss Adams was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman who suffers from female troubles, nervous exhaustion, kidney troubles, nervous excitability or nervous prostration.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all young women who are ill to write her for free advice. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

WORST FORM OF ECZEMA.

Black Spots All Over Face—Affected Parts Now Clear as Ever—Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

"About four years ago I was afflicted with black spots all over my face and a few covering my body, which produced a severe itching irritation, and which caused me a great deal of annoyance and suffering, to such an extent that I was forced to call in two of the leading physicians of my town. After a thorough examination of the dreaded complaint they announced it to be skin eczema in its worst form. They treated me for the cure for the lesion of one year, but the treatment did me no good. Finally my husband purchased a set of the Cuticura Remedies, the breaking out entirely stopped. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for six months, and after that every spot was entirely gone and the affected parts were left as clear as ever. The Cuticura Remedies cured me of that dreadful disease, eczema, but other complicated troubles as well. Lydia E. Pinkham, 440 Jones Ave., Selma, Ala., Oct. 28, 1905."

A writer says: "Nothing is best achieved by indirection. The workings of a corker would seem to refute this otherwise plausible theory."—Chicago Daily News.

The Principal Reason Being Side-tracked the Caller Failed to Show.

H. A. Duck was calling on Prof. Jenkins, of Cornell, at the St. Francis hotel the other day, relates the San Francisco Chronicle. They were exchanging railway and becoming the ambient atmosphere with much smoke, when a brass-buttoned bellboy cut short their banter by handing the Cornell professor a card. "Pardon me, momentary interruption," said Prof. Jenkins, as he proceeded to read an inscription on the card. It read:

"Some years ago, on the occasion of a visit to Alaska, I enjoyed the pleasure of meeting your father, and I would be deeply sensible of the privilege and honor of shaking hands with him."

"About 30, sir," said the bellboy. "A thought clouded the brow of President Roosevelt's representative for a moment. Then he wrote something on the back of the card and handed it back to the bellboy. He something on the back of the card read:

"My father died 37 years ago. If you have any other good reason for wishing to see me I should be pleased to have you come up."

L. S. Gorham, of 518 East 4th St., Olympia, Wash., says: "Six years ago I got wet and took cold, and was soon flat in bed, suffering tortures with my back. Every movement caused an agonizing pain, and the persistence of it exhausted me, so that for a time I was dazed and stupid. On the advice of a friend I began using Donan's Kidney Pills, and soon noticed a change for the better. The kidney secretions had been disordered and irregular, and contained a heavy sediment, but in a week's time the urine was clear and natural again and the passages regular. Gradually the aching and soreness left my back and then the lameness. I used six bottles to make sure of a cure, and the trouble has never returned."
